

It's Not About Luck, It's About Leadership

Let's Talk About Performance...

How's your hospital doing with its financial goals? Clinical quality improvement efforts? Market share? Patient satisfaction scores? Employee turnover rates?

Not hitting one or more of those goals? You're not alone. It's a tough environment – and getting tougher. But sustained, successful performance is achievable, even in a tough environment. It's not about luck – it's about leadership. Specifically, about how effectively leadership aligns its values, strategies and culture. And that's about clarity, commitment and accountability.

“Disaffected culture eats strategy for lunch. Strategy is critical to operational excellence, but unless you align culture with strategy, execution won't happen.”

Paul Litten, Founding Partner, leadershipForward

Let's Talk About Change...

Organizational culture is a product of what its leaders model – and what they tolerate. When change is necessary, it's undeniably hard work. But it's not impossible. And it starts with you and your leadership team.
